Greg Reitman is the founder of Blue Water Entertainment, Inc. an independent production focusing on environmental science entertainment. He recently produced the Audience Award winning documentary, 'Fields of Fuel' at the 2008 Sundance film festival. He wrote, produced, and directed the feature documentary 'Hollywood's Magical Island - Catalina' (2003) syndicating on American Public Television (APT). He is currently in production on his new feature documentary film, 'Rooted in Peace' and the live concert event, 'Rock the Green Vote' which will take place this Fall. Greg worked in the high tech arena for five years serving two leading companies:

LSI Logic- a fortune 500 semiconductor company; and the Meta Group a leading market research information technology company. In both capacities, Greg was a business, and sales director servicing the entertainment and fortune 500 marketplace. In addition, Greg was a leading industry technology spokesman in the areas of multimedia, electronic publishing, and e-commerce.

Greg began his career in publishing, working in marketing and sales for both Simon and Schuster (UK) and Oxford University Press (NY). Greg earned his Bachelor of Arts from University of Massachusetts at Amherst (1993), holds a certificate in Film & Television, Marketing & Distribution from UCLA and has studied internationally at Tel-Aviv University (Israel), Hokkaido University (Japan) and Florence University (Italy).

He received a master certificate in Creative Producing in Tel Aviv University; he is a graduate of the Travis Directing School; an alumni of HFI (Hollywood Film Institute), and currently serves as a national board member for the Green Energy Council and a board member for the Jewish Federation Entertainment Executive Council. He currently resides in Los Angeles.
